According to the Diary of Edith Heckelberth	Edith Heckelberth is a shy teenage girl who has lived in the background for her entire life. Her only true friend has ever been her diary and school queen bee, Annie Ricci, or so she thought. Yet Edith decides it's time to finally give popularity a shot through what Annie knows best - a party. But will personal tension, jealousy, secrets, and China Anne McClain turn this extravaganza into something fantastic- or a fiasco. Based on the childhood shows we know and loved, According to the Diary of Edith Heckelberth is a satirical play within a play bound to make you question "who even is China Anne McClain?" The Book of Zekimus	The king of Vienna, King Zekimus, is getting too old to rule the land. He does not have any offspring however so he hosted a competition. Anyone in the kingdom could present their life story to the king and whoever was most compelling would become the next king of Vienna when Zekimus passes away. (Comedy-the play is mostly comedic monologues)	Ash Rauch	TBD	TBD	7 people (any gender)	~20 minutes	Yes	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	No
The Literati Awards	Tonight the brightest stars of classic literature are coming together for the biggest awards show of the year - so of course they're all on their absolute worst behavior. Romeo's jealous that Juliet got nominated, Sherlock Holmes keeps trying to deduce the results from the accountants, and it's all security can do to keep Gollum away from his precious trophy. Everyone's walking the red carpet from Elizabeth Bennet to Holden Caulfield, but only one can walk away with the big award for The Greatest Literary Character of All Time. Who will it be? With five possible endings, only the audience vote can decide! The classics get a showbiz twist in this wickedly funny comedy.
